

A year ago, Chris Antley was a race away from the Triple Crown. Heavy drink-ing, a battle with drugs and a bout with depression led to a violent, bloody end. 1C

Wednesday, December 20, 2000

Newsline

■ Nasdaq hits low for the year

Dow Jones industrial average drops 61.05 points to 10.584.37; Nasdaq index dives 112.81 to 2511.71; 30-year Treasury bond yield rises to 5.47%. 1, 48. ► USA TODAY Internet 100 fails 4.36 to 94.40. 48. ► Japan's Nikkei index is down 169 points, 1.2%, to 13.965 early boday. Hong Kong's Hang Seng index fails 273 points, 1.8%, to 14.915.

Airline death linked to heart ailment

Forensic expert says combination of heart prob-lem, marijuana and onboard brawl might have killed Jonathan Burton on Southwest Airlines flight. 3A.

'Old-fashioned' winter is forecast

Warm winters of recent are sent packing by fore-casters who say that plenty of cold and snowy weath-er will be moving back in. 4A.

So far, so good this flu season

A brutal influenza season compounded by a lack of vaccines hasn't materialized. For one, vaccine supplies have actually increased. A better life, 6D.

College bowl games begin

The bowl-game season starts tonight With Mobile Alabama Bowl. LaDainian Tomlinson, above, leads Texas Christian against Southern Mississippi. 3C.

■ Today's debate: Online shopping

In USA TODAY's opinion, "Buy online at your own risk. FTC limited in effort to rein in e-tailers that fail to keep promises." 12A.

> "Unfortunately for naysaying pundits, online retailing overall is quite healthy." Elaine Rubin says. 12A.

■ Money: Your name here

Corporate naming rights are no longer relegated to football stadiums. Roads and parks are fair game. 18. Retailers seeing red over a lack of green? The holiday shopping season is fizzling. 18.

Sports: Ohlmeyer leaving MNF?

Monday Night Football producer Don Ohlmeye might step down soon. Rudy Martzke column. 3C.

■ Life: Home for Christmas, by golly

The family house awaits. A long drive, a nervous co-pilot and a blinding snow carlt keep USA TODAY's Craig Wilson from getting there. 1D.

If you thought this was a bad year for movies, you're not alone. Film critics are saying that 2000 could be the worst such year since 1930. 1, 4D.

By John O. Buckley

Movie guide for the holidays

Reviews of upcoming films, including the Torn Hanks movie Cast Away. Plus, critics make their Oscar predictions. All in a special four-day holiday edition Friday.

USA Get breaking news updated 24 hours a day, TODAY 7 days a week. Visit us on the Web at

USA TODAY Snapshots®

Fed signals future rate cut; Bush, Gore meet

■ Slow growth troubling to policymakers, 1-2B

■ Clinton to Bush: 'Do what you think is right,' 2A

Bush to name Agriculture. Commerce, Housing posts, 8A

Get-together: Vice President Gore escorts
President-elect Bush into his residence Tuesday in Washington

Volcano in Mexico scatters villagers

Town on "maximum alert": The Popocatepeti volcano spews smoke and ash Tuesday from a village 45 miles southeast of Mexico City. About 50,000 people live in the volcano's shadow. Story, 10A.

Sudan's 'lost boys' find new homes, lives across the USA

Refugees haunted by memories eager for fresh start in the year that they ate leaves, Emmanuel was 4. The civil war in Sudan had come to his home in Kongor, scattering its people. He fled, carrying his baby sister in his arms, and never saw his par-sister in his arms, and never saw near pre-ents again.

That was when the wandering began.
It was 1987, and Emmanuel became one of the "lost boys" — the name given to the thousands of Sudanese children or phaned by warfare who spent much of their childrood wandering eastern Afri-ca and living in refugee camps.
For years, Emmanuel remembers, hunger, fear and uncertainty made it dif-fered in sleen.

hunger, fear and uncertain ficult to sleep.

But in early November, he finally restmuel. 17, arrived in Seattle on But in early November, he finally rested. Emmanuel, 17, arrived in Seattle on
Nov. 6, orie of the first of roughly 3,600
Sudanese children and young adults who will move from a refugee camp in Kaluma, Kenya, to 11 cities in the United 's
Rates over the 11 cities in the United 's
Rates over the 11 cities in the United 's
Rates over the next year.

Among them are as many as 500 children ages 10-17, the largest number of orphaned refugee children to be resetted in this country since the mid-1990s, refugee advocates say. The children will be placed with foster parents, in group homes, or independent living arrangements when that is deemed appropriate.

oepencent inving arrangements when that is deemed appropriate. Though many of the children know that their parents are dead, some are unsure what happened to their families. Because there is a possibility that some could be reunited with their parents, the children are not eligible for adoption, says Panos Moumzist, the U.S. spokesman for the United Nations High Commissioner for Refugees.

A new world in Seattle: Emmanuel, 17, is among the first of 3,600 Sudanese children and young adults who will move from a refugee camp in Kenya to 11 U.S. cities over the next year.

Most of the children living in the Kakuma camp since 1982 had been "waiting there for 8½ years for peace to return to the Sudan so they are able to go home," says floolly Daggert, a social worker with Lutheran Social Services in Seattle. That day has never onne. That's why there was such advocary for these kids, to find them permanent homes." Joint efforts by the UIA High Commissioner for Refugees, the State Department and other refugee advocates led to the resettlement of those who could not go back to Sudan, where war still rages, and who were not allowed to live permanently in Rerya. Nine agencies, including two authorized by the

Please see COVER STORY next page

Rules to protect medical privacy

Patients will gain more power over personal data

By Julie Appleby

Employers, marketers and even doctors face new limits on what they can learn about patients' medical histories under sweeping privacy regulations to be issued today by the Clinton administration. The rules come in response to growing concern that private medical information is increasingly available and is being used to sell products, screen job candidates or affect employment. The rules, which must be put into place within two years, say:

private medical information is increasingly available and is being used to sell products, screen job candidates or affect employment.

The rules, which must be put into place within two years, say:

Patients must give permission to release medical information. When patients first sign up for health coverage or visit a doctor, they libe asked to sign consent for routine use of records, such as billing or medical treatment. They must give special permission for non-routine uses, such as employers seeking information on job candidates or product marketers seeking lists of patients with specific conditions.

Patients must be told how their information is being used and by whom.

Por the first time, residents of all 50 states will be able to view, copy and amend their records.

Patients that they are seed the seeking information that is supposed, to be private.

Think this is the biggest privary victory we've had in decades, "said jainori Goldman of the Health Privary Project at Georgetown University.

Without seeing the final version of the rules, health midstry groups said Tuesday that they are not opposed to confidentiality programs that industry groups said Tuesday that they are not opposed to confidentiality programs that see the records of the American Association of Health Plans. I think its too early to say if our members will be able to live with these rules.

For example, the one-time consent needed for routine care doesn't seem burdensome. Stewart says, but still raises questions: What do you do if someone refuses to sign the consent? That puts a physician in a tough position when trying to truel a patient.

After proposing the rules has year, the Department of the eath and Human Services received more than 50,000 comments, both from privary abordance who said the would be too costly and complex.

The respections. But those costs will be able to live with these rules of the productions and the production of the records to other doctors or hospitals. Police and other law endocement of the production of the Written b

Bush, br

him the pr

McCain i

The fede

contains at Ariz., says. gress pass doled out What M Idaho, one grant for ti It's an "aw McCain!' onion rese tion in Ha $400,000 the Nation rese potato res trees in Illi $5 million furbish an Gov. Wh Roll ove Bush and from New the Bushe The Bus

Presiden

You

State Depa

accompan the young cities as Jackson, M The fede

Cover story

In Bosto renovated nese youth to remain Lansing, N adult refu dan, is try buy apart young me From Ri Wash., so wash., so parents an the educ needs of y so much i "They'v from cam Baukhage: Lutheran I

Service, w with the to resettle children. enced) ex enced) ex dren being (children) they had being safe used to," s The Lutl eral organ gees fleeir in their h years reset Kosovo ann

Civil war the time of the British signed in 1 radic violet escalated

ZZZZZZZZZZZZZZZZZZZZZZZZZ The Heavenly Bed.

R.SVP WESTIN